Course Objectives: The main objectives of this course include gaining applied experiences at your selected internship site and integrating these experiences with your knowledge of the field of psychology. Fulfillment of these objectives will include discussion of ethical and diversity issues as they relate to your applied experiences, as well as consideration of your long term career interests. Finally, you will have opportunities to reflect upon your experiences with respect to your role as a professional working in a psychology related field and as a citizen of your local and global community.

Attendance Policy: You may receive up to 120 points for attending seminars. For Fall 2021, seminars will take place online via Zoom. During the first week of the semester (week of Aug 24 – 28) we will NOT meet as a class. Instead, you will need to schedule an individual Zoom meeting with me. For the remainder of the semester, we will meet every other week for a total of six class meeting times for each section (see chart below). Attendance includes arriving to class on time, participating in class discussions, and demonstrating that you have prepared for class by having completed your journal entries and notes on chapter readings. Should you not be able to attend class, it is your responsibility to contact me in advance (if possible) to inform me of the reason for your absence. (NOTE: Seminar attendance is required for psychology majors doing an internship in during fall and/or spring semesters. The seminar is not offered during summer time, so summer interns need to make up internship seminar time by doing extra hours on site (i.e., 10 additional hours).

Requirements for Advanced Applied Psychology (Internship in Psychology Program)

INTERNSHIP CONTRACT: The contract for the internship must be completed and signed by you, your faculty supervisor and site supervisor PRIOR TO beginning your internship experience. BE SURE TO ATTACH A LIST OF OBJECTIVES AND RESPONSIBILITIES TO THE CONTRACT. The Internship Contract form and a sample list of objectives and responsibilities is available in the Appendix of this Internship Handbook.

STUDENT TRAINING/INTERNSHIP AGREEMENT: STUDENT RESPONSIBILITIES AND GENERAL AGREEMENTS. Please review and sign this PRIOR to beginning your internship experience.

TIME COMMITMENT: The Psychology Program requires that you perform a total of 120 hours of work for 3 units of academic credits.¹ Spring/Fall term interns are also required to attend a seminar every other week, scheduled Tuesday evenings 5-7:00 (via Zoom for Fall 2020). Additional requirements for Advanced Applied Psychology are described below. These will be covered in more detail at the start of the semester when you meet for individual Zoom meetings to solidify your internship arrangements. Please review the requirements carefully. Keep in mind Advanced Applied Psychology PSYC 400 may be taken two times for a total of 6 credits. A good number of psychology majors opt to complete 240 hours of on site work, for which enrollment over two (2) semesters is needed. Others opt to intern at two different sites, for 120 hours each. If you are considering enrolling in a total of 6 credits for Advanced Applied Psychology PSYC 400, be sure to discuss this with your faculty supervisor. The minimum internship requirement for PSYCHOLOGY majors is three (3) credits of Adv Applied Psychology, and the minimum requirement for CPHP majors is six (6) credits of Adv Applied Psychology.

ORIENTATION/INTERNSHIP CONFIRMATION MEETINGS: Prior to the semester in which you plan to do your internship, you will need to begin making arrangements for your internship experience. An important starting point is reading this handbook in its entirety, followed by setting up an individual meeting with your faculty supervisor (Dr. Christine Olson for 2020-21 year). Your internship site must be approved by the faculty supervisor, who will submit a “permission to enroll” for PSYC 400 (Section 01 for PSYCHOLOGY majors; Section 88 for CPHP majors). This opens up a slot for you to enroll in the course. Evaluation of this course is based upon BOTH completion of all required paper work, hours on site and critical reflection/integration components of the course while doing one’s internship.

TIME LOG: You will need to keep a time log to track and record the dates/hours for final verification of credit hours earned. The time log may be kept in a spiral notebook, on time cards provided by the site, or you may make use of other record keeping systems. The most important factor is keeping the record and having it verified by your site supervisor. Whatever form of record keep you choose to use, it will need to be signed by your site supervisor.

REFLECTIVE JOURNAL: Developing a habit of deliberately reflecting upon the experiences you have during your internship experience is critical with respect to enhancing learning. Maintaining a reflective journal creates an opportunity for you to integrate internship experiences with your formal academic coursework. Reviewing journal entries will also provide you with a resource from which to draw while writing your final integration paper. With this I mind, you will be asked to make at least one journal entry a week (though more are encouraged) throughout the course of your internship. This entry should be at least two pages in length. This should not merely account for the time spent at your site (time log serves that purpose). Rather, journal entries should involve critical reflection upon the learning that is taking place while fulfilling your role as intern. Although I, as faculty supervisor, will review the entries to insure

Note¹:

If you anticipate doing an internship during the Summer Session(s) you may enroll for academic credit either the semester before or after you do your internship. By the end of summer or early into the Fall Term, you will need to submit all required assignments (e.g., Journal, Final Integration Paper, Portfolio). Faculty supervision will be available for internship experiences during the Summer Sessions on a distance learning basis (i.e., via Zoom/phone/email) and seminars are waived. Given waiving of seminar meetings, it will be necessary to make up seminar time with on-site time (i.e., total of 10 additional hours for summer interns and Community Psychology and Health Promotion majors).

fulfillment of internship requirements, the journal will not be retained by the Psychology Program and its contents will be kept confidential.

INTEGRATION SEMINARS: You are required to attend integration seminars every other week throughout the semester (see Note 1 pg). The integration seminars will involve reflecting upon insights gained from your internship experiences, learning about the experiences of other interns, considering relevant ethical issues, considering the relationship between your internship experience and your long term career objectives and sharing your thoughts on “self as citizen” (drawing from notes on Loeb’s Soul of a Citizen book).

FINAL INTEGRATION PAPER: This paper will involve integration of your applied experiences with your academic coursework and with information you have gathered about your career interest(s). It should be approximately 10 pages in length and should be written in APA format. Review of your journal entries and seminar notes can serve as good sources of information for this paper. Topics addressed in this paper include: key insights from your internship experience about the nature of the profession in which you worked (e.g., addictions counselor, youth group leader, public health educator); reflections on current career interests; reflections on personal strengths and areas needing improvement; and next steps (e.g., seeking work in this area or going a whole new direction, pursuing graduate studies, learning a foreign language).

PORTFOLIO: Each student is responsible for preparing a portfolio to be turned in at the conclusion of the semester. A copy of your completed Internship Contract, Final Integration Paper, Time Log, and all evaluations should be included in your portfolio. It should also contain samples of work/roles assumed, such as the following: sample forms you needed to complete, newsletters, job description, internship site descriptive materials. Information from two relevant national (or international) professional organizations and two graduate studies programs should be included as well. Finally, you will need to include an updated resume in which you have noted your internship experience. These may be submitted in the following ways: drop it off at the Social Science Department Office; mail to Dr. Christine Olson; upload to Brightspace dropbox; or email it.

EVALUATION: As an on-going process, evaluation will be done jointly with the internship site supervisor and the faculty supervisor. The student will be kept well-informed of the process and will have input into the overall evaluation. Students should request that their site supervisor complete a mid-semester evaluation in addition to the final evaluation form, and signed copies of both should be sent/emailed to the faculty supervisor.

GRADING: Recognizing that each student will be going into the internship experience with a different background and knowledge about the role/tasks expected at one’s internship setting, mid-semester and final evaluations are considered along with the progress made by the student over the course of the internship experience. In addition, the quality of the integrative assignments submitted (e.g. journal, paper and portfolio) will contribute to the final grade for the internship and the extent to which the student integrates the internship experience with his/her academic training (via journaling and attending integration seminars). See grade criteria sheet (pgs. 4-5) for more detail.

Suggestions for Enhancing Learning throughout the Internship Experience

Following are some suggestions for what you can do to enhance your learning during the internship experience.

- Observe daily operations.
- Take a tour of the facilities.
- Read the organization’s annual reports (with supervisor permission), studies, professional literature, and journals.
- Familiarize yourself with the goals and objectives of the organization.
- Observe and discuss with other staff persons their roles and responsibilities.

- Discuss personal attitudes, values, and services which are expected at the agency.
- Familiarize yourself with in-house forms, library, and resource information.
- When appropriate, ask for permission to sit in on sessions where other services are provided.
- After you have completed your initial assignments, discuss with your supervisor the possibility of adding more or varied responsibilities or projects.
- Keep in mind your long term plan for professional development as you consider projects/tasks you would like to take on (with site supervisor approval) at your site. It may be helpful to consider yourself being interviewed for an entry level position or for selection into a graduate studies program, what would you like to be able to say about yourself with respect to skills, knowledge, experience with diverse populations, experience with program evaluation/research, etc.?
- Ask for feedback on an on-going basis.
- Keep a reflective journal of your experiences.
- Ask your supervisor(s) about relevant professional organizations so that you may become aware of the national/international context for this profession, attend conferences/trainings, network, gain information about career development and job opportunities, and more!

Suggestions for Reflecting Upon the Internship Experience (via Journal Entries)

In addition to tracking the hours that you work at the internship site, it is important that you reflect on your experience in an on-going way. Your self-awareness of personal strengths, weaknesses, and values will be enhanced by this process. Having developed the habit of reflective journaling can also contribute substantially to enhancing the quality of your Final Integrative Paper; you will have acquired a rich base of insights into the nature and outcomes of your internship by reflecting upon your experiences in an integrated, multi-faceted manner. Listed below are some sample suggestions and sample questions that can aid with reflective journaling.

Suggestions for reflective journaling:

- Write an objective account of the daily events that occur.
- Describe your feelings and perceptions, questions and ideas about what happened during the day. This is your subjective account of the day, and should constitute the bulk of your journaling. Let your thoughts roam freely while doing this portion.
- Outline actions for your next contact based upon what you learned during the day/evening. If problems or needs surfaced during the hours in which you worked, be sure to include a plan of action to deal with this as soon as possible. In this way you can use your log as an means of personal growth.

Sample reflective journaling questions:

- What is the best thing that happened today/this week?
- What is the most difficult/satisfying part of your work? Why?
- What do you think is your most valuable/valued contribution?

- Did you receive any compliments/criticisms? What did you learn from these?
- Tell about a person there who you find interesting/challenging to be with.
- How do people treat you? How do they view your role? Is this congruent or in conflict with how you see your role?
- Were you confronted (directly or indirectly) with a question of values, a moral dilemma? How did you think about this conflict?
- How did issues of race/ethnicity, social class, and gender influence what happened while working at your internship site today/this week?
- Tell about something you learned as a result of a disappointment or even a failure.
- Think back on a moment when you felt especially happy or satisfied in your placement. What does this tell you about yourself?
- Is there some situation that you had problems with that you would want to talk to your site supervisor about?
- How did you feel today? Did you just feel like you were working because you were required to work? What got you going?
- How is all this relevant to readings, discussions, and what you have learned in general during your academic studies?
- How does this experience connect to your long-term goals?
- What kind of person does it take to be successful at the kind of work that the agency does? Could you do this?
- What are you getting out of your service?
- What is the agency/community getting out of your service?
- How has this internship changed since you first began? (e.g., different activities, more or less responsibility)
- What do you feel is your main contribution?
- What did someone say to you that surprised you?
- What compliments have been given and what do they mean to you?
- Did you take (or avoid taking) a risk this week? Why?
- What did you do this week that made you proud of yourself?

Locating an Internship Experience: Step-by-Step Guidelines

1. Let your faculty supervisor (Dr. Christine Olson Christine.olson@smsu.edu) know of your interest in enrolling in PSYC 400 Advanced Applied Psychology (Internship).

- Contact Dr. Olson via email and express your interest in enrolling in Advanced Applied Psychology. In your email, please provide your 8-digit student ID so that a “permission to enroll” may be submitted to the Registration Office. This will open up a slot for you to enroll. You will need to enroll yourself in this course (Section 01 for Psychology majors; Section 88 for CPHP majors).
- Review the Internship Handbook and arrange to meet in person or correspond via phone/Zoom/email about your specific internship interests.

2. Carefully consider what you would like to gain from the internship experience. Making use of these resources may be helpful.

- O*NET SUMMARY REPORTS: It can be able to helpful to identify professions that relate to your long term career interests on O*Net <https://www.onetonline.org/>. The Summary Report for a given profession (e.g., substance abuse counselor, public health educator, clinical psychologist, physical therapist) may be especially helpful because it provides a detailed list of skills and knowledge needed for that particular line of work. Highlighting skills/knowledge you would like to gain will help you to be specific about your interests as you approach potential site supervisors to express your interest in doing an internship.

EXAMPLE: Substance Abuse Counselor <https://www.onetonline.org/link/summary/21-1011.00>

- RELEVANT PROFESSIONAL ORGANIZATIONS. Professional organizations can be very useful resources for a number of reasons. For example, they often provide the following: good overview of the nature of a given field; list of workshops, trainings, and conferences that you could take advantage of prior to and after graduation (often at a very affordable student rates); readily available network of professionals in a given line of work; lists of accredited graduate training programs; and access to job listings; and certification/licensure information. O*Net lists relevant professional organizations at the end of their SUMMARY REPORTS. The Occupational Outlook Handbook <https://www.bls.gov/ooh/> can also be a useful resource for identifying relevant professional organizations. Finally, feel free to ask your site supervisor about what professional organizations you should be aware that would help you to progress in this field.

EXAMPLE: Health Educator - Here is a selecting listing or relevant professional organizations provided by O*Net at the bottom of the Summary Report for the profession of Health Educator .

- American College Health Association
 - American Nurses Association
 - American Public Health Association
 - American School Health Association
- DIVISIONS AND INTEREST GROUPS WITHIN A PROFESSIONAL ORGANIZATION. Specific divisions and interest groups with a professional organization can be very useful with respect to learning about new research in a given field, upcoming training opportunities and conferences, graduate studies information, and much more!

EXAMPLE: The American Psychological Association (APA) currently has 54 Divisions (e.g., Health Psychology, Counseling Psychology, Community Research and Action-Community Psych, Trauma Psychology, and School Psychology <https://www.apa.org/about/division/>).

EXAMPLE: The American Public Health Association (APHA) has a comprehensive list of 32 “Member Sections” (e.g., mental health, maternal and child health, public health education and health promotion) <https://apha.org/apha-communities/member-sections>. Members of these sections can be excellent contacts to find out more about a given profession or learn more about possible internship experiences.

3. Use a variety of resources to locate a potential internship site.

It is your responsibility to locate an internship site. A number of resources may be helpful:

- SMSU Career Services Internship Resources

- SMSU Job and Internship Fairs <https://www.smsu.edu/campuslife/careerservices/students-alumni/job-fairs.html>
- SMSU Handshake (replace Mustangs Volunteer as resource for locating volunteer and internship opportunities) Handshake is a resource that allows our area employers to post part-time jobs, full-time jobs and internships free of charge for SMSU students. Many of our non-profit partners post volunteer positions in addition to these types of opportunities. Once your registration is approved, you will be able to post volunteer opportunities, jobs, and internships on the platform. NOTE: Mustangs Volunteer will become inactive on Thursday, August 27, 2020. 4. Contact potential site(s) and express your interest in doing an internship.

- Review descriptive materials of the site(s) that you are considering so that you can get a better sense of what resources you are able to offer the site, what types of experiences you may have there, and what populations are served by the site.
- Update your resume and print a few copies so you have them on hand for in-person contacts.
- Call and/or email site staff to arrange for meeting with staff member(s) who assumes responsibility for supervising interns.
- It can be a good idea to include the following as you discuss your interest in doing an internship at a given site:
 - i. "I am _____, and I am currently majoring in _____."
 - ii. "The Psychology Program requires that psychology majors complete a 120 hour internship (two for CPHP majors, total of 240 hrs)."
 - iii. "I understand that you may not have a specific office or staff member designated for interns, and that is okay. I am interested in speaking with someone who may be willing to explore the possibility of having me work here from ____ to ____ (time frame) and serve as supervisor."
 - iv. "I want to be a resource for you, while also gaining experience with _____, _____, _____, etc."
 - v. "The SMSU Psychology Program has an Internship Handbook that provides an overview of requirements for majors within the Program, along with all necessary paperwork. It also includes a mid-evaluation and final evaluation that site supervisors are asked to complete."
 - vi. "The Internship Handbook may be found on the SMSU Psychology Program website <https://www.smsu.edu/academics/programs/psychology/index.html>. Also, feel free to contact Dr. Olson with any questions you may have: Christine.olson@smsu.edu; 507-530-0928."
 - vii. "Thanks very much for your time. I can be reached at _____."

5. Internship sites are NOT limited to given organization or establishment. It is important to note that internships are not limited to a given organization or establishment. For example, students may seek an internship with a community coalition focused on an area of interest to you e.g., Marshall, MN HEALTHY 56258 network. In other words, students may opt to work with a member/leader of a community coalition to identify a given concern and create an internship that would fit within the 120 hour time frame (for 3 credits) or 240 time from (for 6 credits). If this option is pursued, an individual affiliated with the coalition or initiative would need to agree to serve as your primary supervisor.

6. Volunteer/service databases can be great starting point for identifying internships opportunities! Keep in mind that organization that provide information about service/volunteer opportunities through regional, state, and/or national databases are often quite responsive to students expressing an interest in adapting what is typically a service experience into an internship experience.
7. Once an internship opportunity has been located, complete the Internship Contract and the Student Training Experience/Internship Agreement: Student Responsibilities and General Understandings. Attain the necessary signatures and submit to submit it to Dr. Olson PRIOR to starting your internship.
 - The Internship Contract and the Student Training Experience/Internship Agreement: Student Responsibilities and General Understandings may be found in the Appendix section of your Internship Handbook.
 - Be sure to attach a specific description of the internship experience. You will need to collaborate with the Site Supervisor while developing this contract.
 - Be sure that you have attained all necessary signatures prior to submitting forms to Dr. Olson.

Community Psychology and Health Promotion Majors

ADDITIONAL EXPECTATIONS FOR INTERNSHIP

Community Psychology and Health Promotion interns are required to complete the equivalent of two (2) internships. You may opt to complete two entirely separate internships, each requiring a 120 hour time commitment, or you may opt for doing an extensive internship for 240 hours at the same site or with the same group/community coalition. The guidelines and expectations described in this SMSU Psychology Program Internship Handbook all apply. IN ADDITION, for at least one of your internship experiences, you will need to provide evidence of having engaged in at least 30 hours (i.e., one quarter of the 120 hours required) of one or more of the following applied learning experiences: needs assessment, program development, program evaluation, and/or grant writing. Fulfilling this portion of the internship may take the form of becoming involved with some initiative already in progress (e.g., local YMCA is conducting a community needs assessment and you assist with this, Marshall Area HEALTHY 56258 health promotion coalition is in the process of writing a grant seeking federal funding and you assist with this). Alternately, you may initiate one or more of these community resource development/evaluation efforts (e.g., you develop a short structured questionnaire at a not-for-profit agency to assess how the agency might better meet the needs of clientele served) or you may start a new program and include a short evaluation of that program.

Feel free to contact the Faculty Internship Supervisor, Dr. Christine Olson (christine.olson@smsu.edu), to further clarify how this requirement may be met. Evidence of having completed this requirement should be included in your Portfolio.

CORONAVIRUS CONSIDERATIONS Updated Fall 2020

During this pandemic time, arranging for an internship experience will likely take more creativity and require more latitude with respect to what counts as an internship for liberal arts based majors, such as psychology and community psychology/health promotion majors. Thankfully, we are typically able to consider a wider range of alternatives than professional training programs such social work and education. With this in mind, please review the following means by which an internship can be set up. Feel free to contact me, Dr. Christine Olson, to talk through any of these options.

- 1) Traditional site-based approach: Student approaches given site (e.g., Project Turnabout, Western Mental Health) and expresses interest in doing an internship at that site. Sites may be local and require on-site work OR they may be virtual. Each site will vary with respect to availability of internships that allow one to work remotely.
- 2) Service/Volunteer Opportunity Adapted to Internship Experiences. Student locates site for which there are service/volunteer opportunities (e.g., Marshall Area YMCA), and asks if it might be possible to work out a 120 internship experience. See previous section on Locating an Internship Experience:

Volunteer/service databases can be great starting point for identifying internships opportunities! Keep in mind that organization that provide information about service/volunteer opportunities through regional, state, and/or national databases are often quite responsive to students expressing an interest in adapting what is typically a service experience into an internship experience (pg. 12 of this Handbook)

- 3) Community Development/Community Coalition Based Internship. Student approaches community coalition working on a social issue important to you (e.g., Marshall Healthy 56258) and expresses interest in assisting coalition through arranging for an internship experience with the coalition. In this case, students will need to identify one individual involved with the coalition to serve as supervisor. See previous section on Locating an Internship Experience:

Internship sites are NOT limited to given organization or establishment. It is important to note that internships are not limited to a given organization or establishment. For example, students may seek an internship with a community coalition focused on an area of interest to you e.g., Marshall, MN HEALTHY 56258 network. In other words, students may opt to work with a member/leader of a community coalition to identify a given concern and create an internship that would fit within the 120-hour time frame (for 3 credits) or 240 time frame (for 6 credits). If this option is pursued, an individual affiliated with the coalition or initiative would need to agree to serve as your primary supervisor. (pg. 13 of this Handbook)

- 4) Creating Option for Program Evaluation/Research/Literature Review, in Collaboration with Site Supervisor and Faculty Supervisor. Internship descriptions may be created/adapted to include responsibilities that could be done remotely. For example, an intern working with Western Mental Health could suggest expanding resource list for clients experiencing eating disorder related problems, or an intern working at the YMCA could suggest collecting data about the YMCA Child Care Center from parents, with intent of enhancing delivery of childcare services. Whatever is worked out, all parties (intern, site supervisor and faculty supervisor would need agree to arrangement).
