The main supporters of Liberalism were merchants, artisans, financiers, and other specialists that increased after the Black Death, has declined. It helped them develop a greater sense of self by being both internally unified and distinct from other groups in society on the basis of their jobs and lifestyles. These groups of people were called the bourgeois class which in French means something to do with the town, because of how much they had to do with the progress of the town or their community. The heart of Liberalism is the understanding that progress is not a matter of mechanical contrivance, but of the liberation of living spiritual energy. Good mechanism is that which provides the channels wherein such energy can flow unimpeded, unobstructed by its own exuberance of output, vivifying the social structure, expanding and ennobling the life of mind. (Hobhouse, 1999).

Liberalism does not assume that individual liberty and opportunity can be secured in only one way. Much depends upon the circumstances. Liberalism is committed to a role of social architecture. If the rights and opportunities to the individual can best be advanced through governmental action, liberalism will plan and endorse the change. (Martin, 1948). Liberalism was able to happen because the people wanted change and were willing to do what was necessary in order to accomplish their goals.
